

The Federal Communications Commission

Dear The Federal Communications Commission,

I do not want to pay more for my telephone service! I reject a flat fee proposal that would change how contributions are made to the Universal Service Fund. Big business should carry more burden. They have the means. I am concerned that this proposal could make my current service unaffordable. Under the flat fee proposal you are considering, people who make few long distance calls would pay the same as people or businesses that make many calls. In other words, low-volume and primarily residential customers would bear the same universal service fund burden as a high-volume residential or business customers. This is unfair and potentially illegal.

I use my wireless phone. I pay for what I use. I would protest by shutting all services down and going Internet Phone.

Keep it fair people, or find another job. It will become ours to come and get yours.

Sincerely,

Ronald Lister
